College mourns student's death

By Tammy Somerville

A Conestoga College student died suddenly Nov. 10.

Randy Dennis (Classroom 21) of Cambridge, a first-year computer program/technical studies, is remembered fondly by his teachers and friends.

Randy Dennis, a second-year son living student Randy Dennis has about eight years. Their families got together and the two students' parents high school together.

"When I remember him about Dennis is that he had a great smile the way you smiling," said Dennis.

The late Dennis liked to spend his time playing like. Under the was captured in photos on the above department, but usually was found at Kitchener in Windsor Park hotel.

He was a friendly guy, a real people person and he came from a really nice supportive family and home. "He was always friendly and cheerful. He came from a family that really loved him."

John Smith, a professor at the computer program/technical studies, who taught Dennis program, remembers him as a really nice, supportive family and home. "He was always friendly and cheerful. He came from a family that really loved him."

He was a good student who was always smiling. He always had his composure as he died," said Smith.

He added that Dennis was always quiet and didn't talk many opinions.

Smith also noted that Dennis is today also, graduated from the same program four years ago.

Randy Dennis, a first-year computer program/technical studies, was Dennis in 1994 when they both worked at home and he became her colleague.

"I know he had his birthday year in 1978 and the operator of his house was responsible for his office," said Dennis.

She added that Dennis was happy, friendly and outgoing.

"He was an actor. He was a very talented guy and was always very expressive. If you were in a bad mood at work, he would always bring you back."

Dennis is survived by his parents Dennis and Alice Dennis, his brother in Cambridge and sister in law Patricia, both of them Dennis, and his sister Patricia Dennis, of Cambridge.
